

CPS HEALTH ASSESSMENTS AS PART OF THE INVESTIGATION

There has been no Priority I cases that meet this guideline for the past several years.

CPSH.1. If this is a Priority I case involving trauma caused from severe maltreatment, severe physical injury, recent sexual abuse, fetal addiction, or any exposure to a hazardous environment was a medical examination of the child obtained no later than 24 hours after the report was received?

Refer to DCFS practice guideline section 202.8B for requirements.

First check to see if this is a Priority I case. If not, answer question 1 in this section Not Applicable. If this is a Priority I case, check the Child Abuse Neglect Report form (CANR) or the Safe general tab to determine whether or not this Priority I case involves an allegation of severe maltreatment, severe physical injury, recent sexual abuse (within the last 72 hours), fetal addiction, or exposure to a hazardous environment such as illegal drug/chemical production. If so, check the Activity Log for evidence that the worker obtained a medical examination no later than 24 hours after the report was received. Evidence of the medical examination may also be found on the Person Tab of the SAFE computer system.

YES	This is a Priority I case involving severe maltreatment, severe physical injury, recent sexual abuse, fetal addiction, or exposure to a hazardous environment and a medical examination was obtained within 24 hours of the report; or the referral came from the child's health care provider as a result of his/her recent assessment of the child and another assessment was not necessary.
NO	This is a Priority I case involving severe maltreatment, severe physical injury, recent sexual abuse, fetal addiction, or exposure to a hazardous environment and there is no evidence that a medical examination was obtained.
NA	This is not a Priority I case or this is a Priority I case, but the report (allegation) did not involve severe maltreatment, severe physical injury, recent sexual abuse, fetal addiction, or exposure to a hazardous environment; or it is documented in the record that the allegation was clearly unsupported and no medical evaluation was necessary.

CPSH.2. If this case involves an allegation of medical neglect, did the worker obtain a medical neglect assessment from a health care provider prior to case closure?

The DCFS practice guideline section 202.8B specifies that timely medical attention should be obtained by a qualified health care provider. 201.9.B States that for Medical Neglect cases the allegation or finding needs to be based on the opinion of the child's primary care physician or other licensed medical professional. Remember if the allegation of medical neglect is limited to mental health issues, the health care provider may be a licensed mental health professional (CSW, LCSW, PhD, MD). If the worker consults with the child's health care provider (by phone or otherwise), that may be considered an assessment, as long as the health care provider had seen the child in regard to the circumstances involved in the medical neglect allegation.

First check to see if this case involves an allegation of medical neglect. If not, answer question 2 Not Applicable. If this is a medical neglect case, check to see if an assessment from a health care provider was obtained prior to case closure. Check the Activity Log, the Health Visit Report form, medical records, correspondence or reports from the provider for evidence that the worker obtained an assessment from a health care provider. The date of the medical assessment may also be found on the Person Tab of the Safe computer system. There must be confirmation that the medical neglect allegations were discussed with the medical professionals. The assessment is to be obtained as part of the investigation, therefore within 30 days. (If the Regional Director has granted an investigation extension, the assessment should be obtained within the extension time frame granted.)
